This book uncovers some of the pain people experience in the church. Too many people have been wounded in the house of the Lord. Dan Lupton provides a vision of what the church being the church really looks like. Then he seeks to create in us an intense longing for that dream to become a reality.

Great experience!

This book is especially great for those people who are hesitant about becoming a part of a church for whatever reason. It speaks to pastors, church members, and laypersons who want to have a better church. It is full of practical, user friendly, suggestions for being a caring church family; for capturing the heart of the community; for empowering people in the church and much more.

In addition to this book, I highly recommend this author's other book, "People of Promise: How to be an Authentic Believer." I've read it and it changed my life!
